

10 New Outdoor Dining Spots in NYC

When warm weather finally comes to NYC, diners descend upon the city's outdoor dining spaces after being cooped up in tiny apartments all winter. As a result, more and more restaurants add sidewalk cafes and patios to their properties every year. Check out a few of the newest and hottest for summer 2014 in the slide show below.

Catch and La Cenita Steak

The new rooftop terrace at Meatpacking seafood specialist Catch offers 90 seats and stunning sunset views. Nearby sister restaurant La Cenita Steak is also rolling out a streetside patio for the summer season with 28 seats.
